Top 5 things to consider when comparing Medicare plans.

1. Your budget.

Monthly plan premiums, copays, deductibles and out-of-pocket expenses can add up. Make sure you're taking costs into account when exploring your options.

2. Benefits that promote health.

Original Medicare (Part A and Part B combined) doesn't cover everything. Look for Medicare plans with the benefits that help promote your total health—like vision, dental, prescription drug and hearing.

3. Your health history.

Some plans may not cover certain health care services or prescriptions. Be sure to include your current health needs in your plan comparison.

4. Your care providers.

If you want to continue seeing your current doctors and specialists, then you'll want to make sure they're covered under the plans you're considering.

5. Your location.

Finding care close to home or that covers you while traveling can make a difference. Take this into account when making your selection.
